

STUDENT ESSAY CONTEST

Canadian Theological Society /
Société théologique canadienne

Subject: Conference theme “Bridging Communities: Making Public Knowledge, Making Knowledge Public,” or any topic in theology.

Eligibility: Any student currently registered in a Canadian university or theological college.

Length: 20 pages, typed and double spaced (about 5,000 words)

Due Date: February 2, 2007

Please send as an electronic attachment by e-mail to Heather Eaton at heaton@ustpaul.ca.

Essays need not be written originally for this contest and may be assignments from a course in theology or religious studies. The topic, however, must be theological in nature.

An e-mail from a member of the theological or religious studies department to which the student belongs, indicating that the student is in good standing with the university or college, must accompany all papers submitted.

The author of the winning essay will receive $100, an invitation to read the paper at the annual meeting of the Canadian Theological Society at the University of Saskatchewan in Saskatoon, May 27-29, 2007, payment of meeting registration fees, and a subvention for travel and accommodation costs.

Please include with your submission: institutional affiliation and e-mail address. Submission via email attachment in Microsoft Word is preferred.
